

When Derbyshire played Yorkshire in a game
of cricket,
Nobody even hit a wicket.
At one o'clock the stands were bare,
Only the players really care.

The weather was rainy,
The cricketers weren't brainy.
The amateurs stared at the ground and sky,
The players parted and say bye.
There never was a game,
And I really dunno who was to blame

By Lydia and Helen