

EMERGENCY PUB!

Margaret Whippey on the Triangle Inn and Triangle CC

When the Triangle Inn had to close recently, the bar at the cricket club served as the village pub.

We've extended our opening hours to cater for the increased number of people who want a drink. We're now into the third year without the pub and we've made £28,000 in total. That has enabled us to buy an electronic scoreboard and other things too.

We'll always have a good social side here, but however good it is it will always remain first and foremost a cricket club.

When the pub reopens we'll go back to being just a normal cricket club. We've made some money, which has been great, and we'll regard it as a nice little bonus.
