

TEAS AND CLEANING

Wendy Kitchen on being a tea lady

I would have started coming down here in the early 1970s. I started helping with teas, taking over from Susan Smith who'd been doing it for 20-odd years.

We make about £1,500 a year on teas. The men want this money – but I don't necessarily hand it over like that!

I've now given up teas but I still come down with my grandchildren and the dogs. I also help with the cleaning of the pavilion. I give the place a thorough clean – even the men's toilets!
