

PAVILION PROBLEM

Roy Elsworth on club facilities

The club is short of a pavilion. They don't own the ground, so they can't have one. They rely on their tea hut and changing-room block. But all the other clubs have clubhouses – it's a big problem.

It could also affect player recruitment. But what do players look for when they're choosing a club? The facilities? The setting? That said, I do think Warley is generally a popular place.
