

BEAUTIFUL AND PICTURESQUE

Roy Lyons on Station House

Every half an hour you see a train passing by on the Rochdale line. You can see and hear them – the railway is just above the ground on the main-road side. We always said it was 6 and a bonus if a batsman ever hit a passing train. But it never happened!

On the other side of the ground, by the pavilion, there's the River Calder and the Rochdale Canal. We've got a long net so we can fish balls out of the water, but we still lose a lot.

Station House is a beautiful ground, picturesque, but maybe also a bit small. You can see Studley Pike up above and people passing by on the main road will often stop and watch.
