

PEACEFUL AND TRANQUIL

Matt Jones on being groundsman

I suppose I'm quite young for a groundsman – I'm 23. Malcolm Ellis helps me out when he has time.

I work at home and it's pretty intense so I enjoy coming up here and doing the ground. I can switch off – it's peaceful, tranquil and therapeutic, especially when you're on your own.

The square is well used, maybe five games a week. And Rishworth School play here too. So it's always being played on, which is great.

We get some help with cutting the outfield.
