

On 1 July 2008 Brian Heywood launched his 'Local History Scheme of Work for Primary Schools' at Turf Moor, home of Burnley FC. The event was attended by Barry Kilby (Burnley FC Chairman), Jack Simmons (Lancashire CCC Chairman and England and Wales Cricket Board Chairman of Cricket), representatives from many key bodies in the world of sport, and local schoolteachers who had successfully trialled the activities.

Brian had previously worked on the Cricket Heritage Project, devising activity packs for schools.

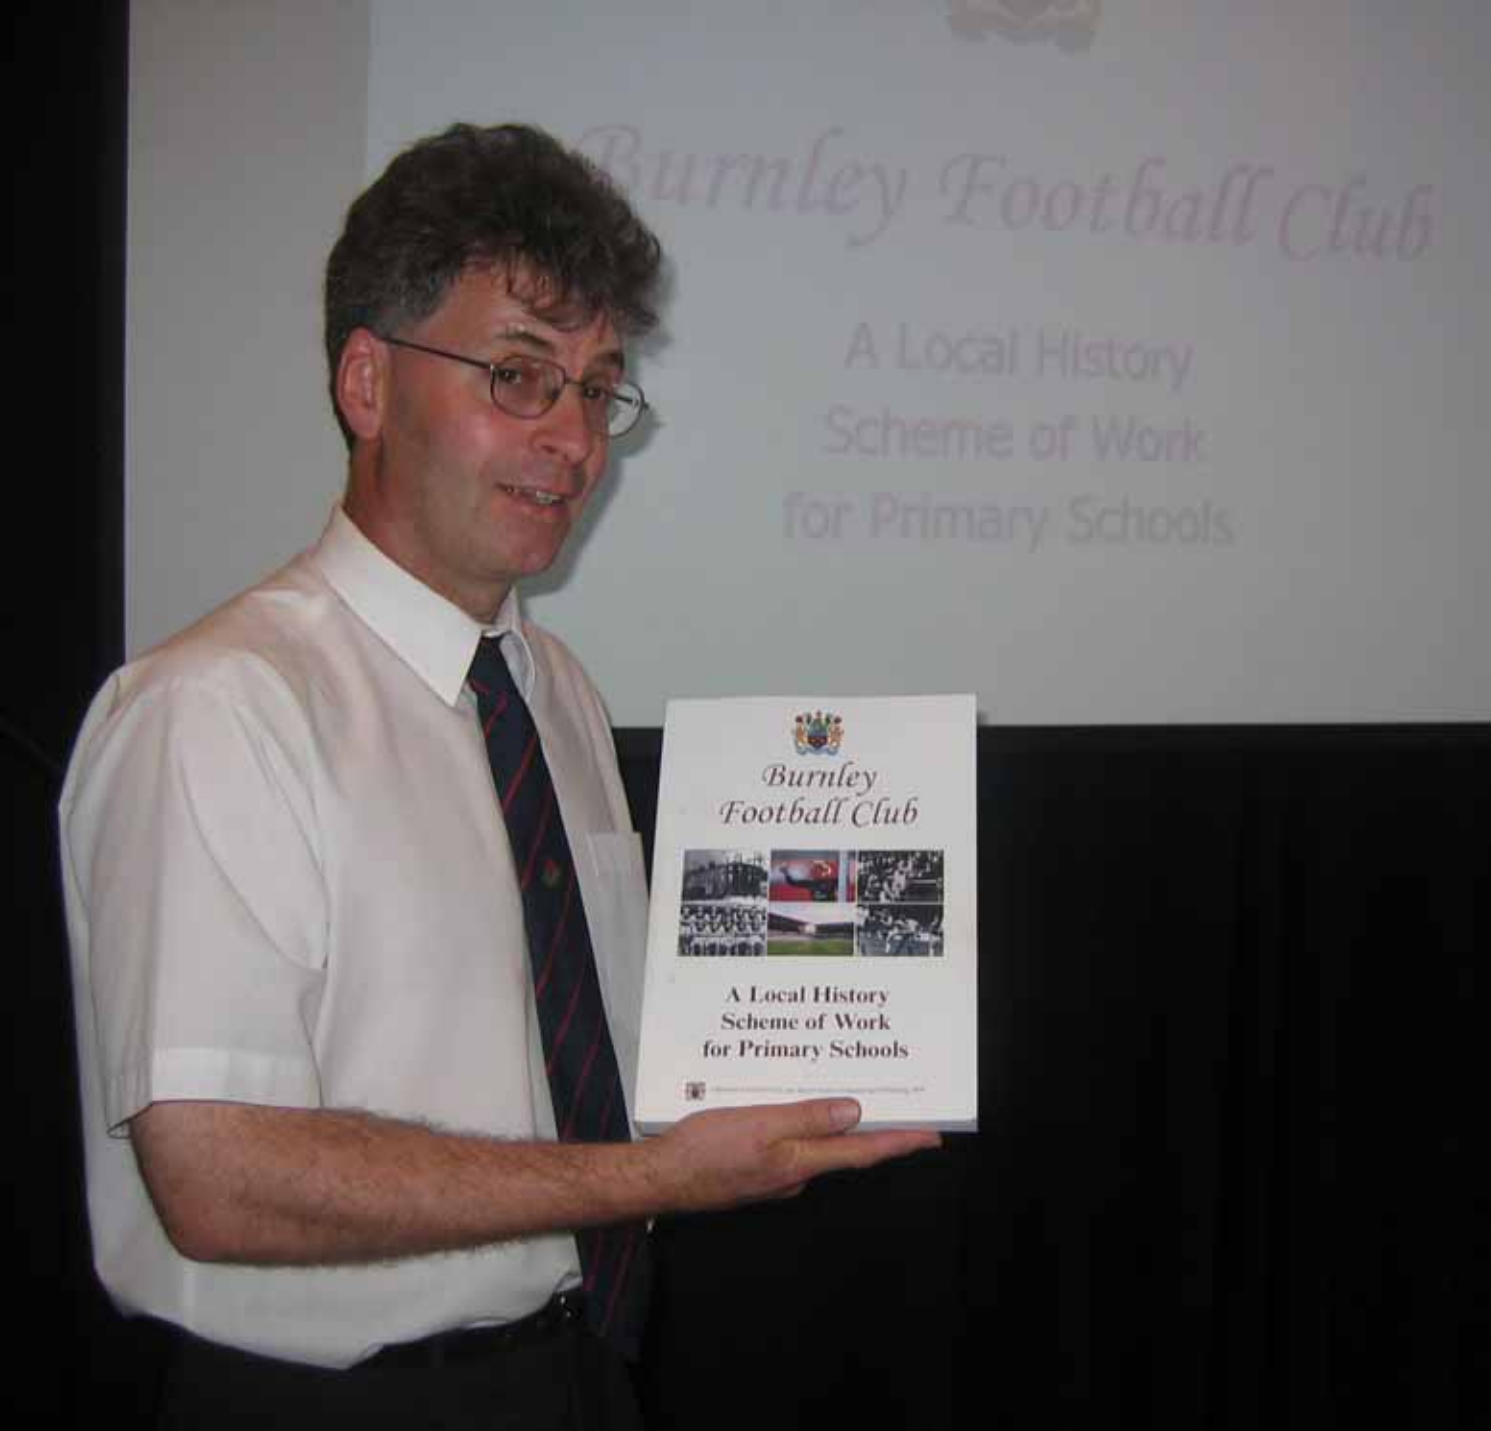

His new company is called Sports Inspire Educational Publishing and Brian can be contacted via sportsinspire@talktalk.net
