

AS in the case of so many local clubs, the record of the beginnings of Honley are not available, but there is reasonable ground for believing that it was founded in the forties.

During last century Honley were one of the strongest sides in the district, and during Feast weeks especially many fine games were played on their ground.

Honley have been members of the Huddersfield League since its inception, and while they have not won the championship, they have usually had a strong side.

HONLEY

The Club Which Produced
Alonzo Drake