

BUSY VICARS!

Malcolm Clegg on the church link

The club is linked to Mirfield Parish Church – the church where I got married! Today there's no real connection with the church but over the years vicars have popped up to the cricket ground when they've had time – but they are busy people!

The ground was church property but was eventually gifted to the club – with the proviso that sport must always be played on it.

There used to be a tradition whereby a flag would fly at the ground when Parish were at home – I don't think it happens so much now.
