

KEEPING COSTS DOWN

Ann Greenwood on cricket teas

Cricket teas are important. If there are no teas there's no cricket – that's the league rule!

I don't think any of the cricketers underestimate the role of the club tea ladies. After all, the men can't play cricket and do the teas!

The teas make a little bit of money. Not a fat profit but a useful amount. We want to keep costs down, so people will want to buy and enjoy our teas, but the money we make does help us meet some of the many running costs at the club.
